

FACILITATING

INDEPENDENT & OBJECTIVE

Dedicated to Improving Your Bottom Line
LEE JAMES & ASSOCIATES

SUMMARY

Through independent and experienced facilitation, teams are more creative, open and comfortable working together. The team's leader can continue to work with the team and not be distracted and/or concerned about proper facilitation. With dynamic and structured facilitation, all team members work more efficiently and effectively and produce better results and outcomes.

The experienced facilitator is aware of the interdependent nature of team members and the varying and challenging dynamics that can result. Through listening, asking questions and engaging others, issues of importance are clarified and understood. By being fully aware of cultural, interpersonal and social cues, a good facilitator understands each person's point of view. At the end of the process, individual perspectives are brought together for the intended purpose and good of the team.
